

BRAINGO

Game Rules

1. Build your game using the Braingo interface.
2. Print your tickets and answer sheet.
3. Hand out the Braingo tickets to your players keeping the answer sheet to check claims.
4. There are 3 claims that can be played for within any one game:
 - A single line (One line of squares marked off anywhere across the card)*
 - 4 Corners (All four corners marked off)*
 - Full House (All squares marked off)*
5. Decide how many claims you wish to play for and inform your players.
6. Load your game of Braingo onto your device and press play.
7. The countdown signals the start of the game.
8. Brian will ask everyone a series of questions from within the game player presented on screen.
9. All questions are presented in order of your answer sheet.
10. Players have to identify the answers to the questions within the game marking them off as and when they appear on their card.
11. You can manually Move through your game using the forward and backwards arrows in the player or let the game run in real time.
12. When a claim is made simply click the claim button, Brian will let everyone know that a claim has been made and give you time to check the card.
13. Take note of what question number the game is up at using your answer sheet.
14. Check the winning card to ensure all answers marked off have been presented up to that point in the game.
15. If the answers correspond with the questions asked up to the claim point and the answer to the last questions is included on the winning card the claim is correct.
16. If you are playing for further claims click correct and carry on with the game.
17. If the claim is for a full house and is correct that signals the end of the game (Click end game).
18. If any answer marked off on the card appears after the point the claim was made the claim is incorrect. Click the incorrect button and Brian will carry on with the game.
19. If a players card is incorrect you can choose to remove that ticket from the game or allow them to carry on for other claims.

Pause

If you would like to give your players more time to discuss the answer or you would like to take a break in the game click the pause button and Brain will wait for when you want to restart the game. To restart your game, simply press play.
